ACTIVITY REPORT

Name of the event: Auditions 2024
Date of the event: September 27, 2024
Venue of the event: B106 Lab
Time: 2 PM onwards
Coordinating Society: Computer Science Students' Society

The auditions for the CSSS (Computer Science Student Society) were held on September 27, 2024, in the B106 lab. The process was structured as an impromptu Q&A, followed by interviews, skill assessments, and a quiz based on the candidates' skill sets. Additionally, candidates were presented with random scenarios by the faculty coordinator and the students' coordinator from the final year of CSSS.

During the auditions, brainstorming questions were posed to encourage creativity and critical thinking. Students showcased their artwork and technical creativity through various mediums, including poster presentations and video samples. Out of 40 students who signed up, 20 qualified for the auditions, representing various branches, including CSE Core, IoT, Data Science, and AI/ML.

Students from different branches of computer science, shown a great interest towards their skill representation through active involvement in the audition process. Besides this they came to know about various events that society conduct and how to execute them for achieving the objective of the society.

The coordinators involved in the auditions included final year members Anjali Debnath, Samarth Rastogi, Vivek Kishor, and third-year coordinators Ananya Agarwal, Divyanshi Saxena, Hannaan Akhtar, Magan Mehrotra, and Sanya Ruhela. The entire process was conducted under the supervision of Ms. Richa Saxena, along with faculty coordinators Mr. Mahendra Singh Sagar, Mr. Rohit Kumar, and Ms. Sakshi Singh.

Judgment on different factors was carried out by both final year and faculty members, ensuring a comprehensive evaluation of each candidate. Overall, the auditions were productive, and the coordinators are excited to review the performances and select new members who will contribute to the CSSS.
